100 MEN ARE NOW EMPLOYED IN RIPRAPPING.

Big Job Being Carried on Rapidly Above Northern Pacific Bridge on River

PROTECTING THE BANK

United States Engineers Supervising Work of Holding Back River Current

About 100 men are employed in various capacities on the big rip-rapping job on the Missouri river's west bank north of the Northern Pacific bridge this winter. The work is being done co-operatively by the United States Engineers, U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, State Highway Commission and Northern Pacific Railroad, to protect the bank from further washing away by the Missouri's treacherous current. Continued erosion might eventually endanger the grades of the Northern Pacific for a vehicular bridge at Wadena. The channel also is protected for river transportation by the work.

The job is now about one-third completed. It starts at a point about a mile north of the bridge and the project itself is almost a mile long. Sixty men are employed in the supervision and placing of the heavy mats, while 40 more are engaged as wood choppers and haulers. The job will cost upwards of $100,000.

The work can best be done in the winter time. Heavy matrices composed of willow branches, wire cables, and are then weighted down with rock. The matrices are moved out on the ice about 40 feet extending from the bank, the cables are then fastened to the bank and the matrices then fall into place. The channel is then protected against the swirling current.

Most of the stone used in the work is shipped from Burlington county, N. D. The work is being carried on by the United States Engineers, War Department, Kansas City, Missouri, and following its completion rip-rapping work will be done around Cannonball.

NORTHWEST IS DECLARED FOR COULTER BILL

Publisher of Minneapolis Tribune Testifies Before House Committee

Washington, Jan. 14. (By the AP.) Business interests and the press of the Northwest are solidly supporting legislation which would extend federal aid to the farmer in efforts to overcome production. Frederick E. Murphy, publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune, told the senate agriculture committee today.

While the business bill which the committee had under consideration would not entirely meet the necessities of the farmers of the spring wheat belt, the witness said, it "would furnish a measure of immediate aid which would go far."

"For the first time in my journalistic career," said Mr. Murphy, reading a list of newspapers he was empowered to represent, "all those publications have agreed on one thing."

The bill before the committee would establish a fund of $50,000,000 for financing the purchase of sheep, corn and poultry and other livestock in wheat areas which have suffered from recent crops and market conditions.

PIELESS PLAN PROVIDES Makes Health Champs of Two PERFECT PHYSIQUE

GLADYS HUGHES

VICTOR LINDGREN

Park River, N. D., Jan. 14.—Daily dozens are included in the regimen of two of America's most healthy children.

Not the high wind to well-being charmed with dietetic barbarians, they say.

Take Gladys Hughes, modern Hygienist, for instance.

This 15-year-old miss from Moorhead, Sunflower county, Minn., who won first prize as the country's most physically fit girl, informs that she arrived at the goal via the following prescription:

"Plenty of fighting plus volleyball practice."

And as for Victor Lindgren, 18, hailing from this place, he assures that his niche in Health's hall was carved by no other means than his manly abstemiousness from pie coupled with periodic rushes on well-stocked platters of ham and eggs.

Gladys, who's but 15, came by her laurels at the International Live Stock Show held recently in Chicago. Her score was 99 out of a possible 100. She represented the pick of 100,000 members of girls' clubs from every state in the union and was declared champion only after eliminating 28 other district representatives who vied with her for the honor.

Victor's title embraces but 12 states. He won it at the Interstate Fair at Sioux City, Ia. His score was 99.8 out of a possible 100. Which was going some, judges said. Both youngsters come from farming communities. Each attends high school.

Gladys has red hair, gray eyes, perfect teeth, weighs 121.5 pounds, is 5 feet 3.7 inches tall and smiles to beat the band.

"I'm going to be a music teacher," she says. "And positively I won't go on the stage."

So there you are.

$90,000 THEFT PLOT CHARGED IN KIDNAPING

Five Persons Declared to Have Been in Band that Kidnaped Fargo Man

CONFESSION MADE

Fargo, Jan. 14.—A plot to steal valuable personal property said to be about $90,000 worth of liberty bonds is declared to have been the impelling motive behind the kidnaping of H. S. Russell, chief heir of the late Mrs. B. Smith-Russell last April 10 for which five people are now under arrest.

This is said by local police to be the confession made by Theodore and Carl Hanson, detained in the Cass county jail since last summer on a robbery charge.

Ramsden, a member of the quintet charged with the alleged abduction, surrendered himself to Fargo authorities this morning and was released on a $500 bond. The other two members charged with alleged kidnapping, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burley of Moorhead, have also been placed under arrest but are said to be fighting extradition to Fargo.

Ramsden, who married a niece of the late Mrs. Smith-Russell, is said to be charged in the confession with instigating the plot. The Hanson brothers are reported to have confessed that they took Russell out of town at his request to give him opportunity to obtain a key from Mrs. Smith-Russell. It is said that the key was to Mrs. Russell's safety deposit vault.

The Hanson brothers declare further in the confession, police say, that Ramsden negotiated with them for some little time, declaring that if they could get Russell out of town they would be able to do the business with Mrs. Smith-Russell. The negotiations progressed for sometime, it is said, and Ramsden kept telling them that the police if Russell did disappear or words to that effect.

Finally they are said to have confessed they made an engagement to meet Russell to negotiate with him about leaving one of his houses.

The Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. Burley were in the plot, the purported confession asserts.

N. D. DOCKAGE HELD LARGEST

Grand Forks, Jan. 14.—Wheat shipped out of North Dakota has a dockage percentage of 11.3, the highest of any of the four hard spring wheat states, according to a report received here from Geo. H. Black, director of the U. S. bureau of grain elevating investigation. Other states of the hard wheat belt show: South Dakota 7.7 per cent; Minnesota, 7.2 per cent; and Montana, 2.5 per cent.

The report indicates that the percentage of dockage is much smaller in sections where livestock is extensively raised.

DRAKE MILL BIDS ASKED

Will be Opened at Regular Meeting Next Friday

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 14.—Bids for the purchase of the Drake mill, a state owned institution at Drake, N. D., will be opened by the board of managers of the state mill and elevator at its regular meeting here on Friday, according to Guy L. Ireland, chairman.

The board decided to dispose of the Drake mill at a meeting held here several months ago.

Aside from this matter, business connected with the operation of the state mill and elevator of Grand Forks will be taken up by the board Friday, and thereafter until the meeting is adjourned.

YOUTH SHOTS FELLOW HUNTER

Beach, N. D., Jan. 14.—A defective 32-caliber rifle in the hands of Clifford Fischer caused the death of Leo Lard, the 19-year-old son of Nick Lard, who lives north of Scutumpah. The bullet striking Leo in the spinal cord at the back of the neck and causing instant death, as a result of the gun being accidentally discharged last Sunday.

It appears that the two boys, in company with others, went out for a rabbit hunt and it was while trying to rock the defective gun was on an old one.

The gun was an old one, it is said, and it could not be cocked without pressing forward on the trigger, and it was while trying to do this the weapon discharged, and Leo, who was a few feet in front of the gun was killed.

DAWES OUSTS POLITICS AT NEW INQUIRY

Brigadier-General in Opening Reparations Inquiry Meeting, Gives Views

GERMANY'S FAILURE Characterized as the Most Colossal Bankruptcy in History Affecting Many

Paris, Jan. 14.—(By the A. P.)—With Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes presiding, leading business men and financiers of the United States, Great Britain, France, Belgium and Italy sitting as a board of directors and creditors today began to examine the assets and liabilities of Germany, their nation debtor, with a view of saving something from the ruins of the most stupendous bankruptcy in the history of the world.

"Strictly business and no politics," was the motto under which these representative men assembled.

"The success of this committee," said General Dawes in opening the meeting, "depends on whether in the public mind and conscience of the allies and the world there is an adequate conception of the great disaster which faces each ally and in Europe unless common sense is crowned king."

General Dawes stressed the value of unity of command in war to show the bad effects of present conditions.

"We had to know," he said, "in common with the citizens of all nations that at last that lack of power to agree upon a common attitude and common action had brought all Europe to a most critical and dangerous situation. This is no time to mince words."

He continued by discussing "the impenetrable and colossal fog-bank of economic opinion based upon promises of fact which had changed so rapidly as to make them worthless even if they were in agreement."

The first meeting was lacking in any of the military display which marked the conference at San Remo and Genoa.

Louis Barthou, president of the reparations commission, delivered the address of welcome.

"We do not expect from you," he said, "the unlooked for miracle of the solution of the reparations problem but we hope with sincere confidence that your competency, experience and authority will concentrate to hasten the result toward which we are bringing all our efforts."

European credit, General Dawes said, had suffered a shock as the world had been shocked by the economic life of Germany. He added that "the world realizes that if the German people lose their capacity for work Germany loses her capacity to pay those reparations which are so great an element in European solvency."

FRAZIER'S KIN IS INVENTOR

Park River, N. D., Jan. 14.—Wardens, Winnipeg, brother-in-law of Senator Lynn J. Frazier, for many years a resident of this place, states that he has received much encouragement regarding his shocking machine, a recent invention.

The machine was tried out during the harvest season at Winnipeg and more recently has been tried out in southern states and is reported to work with almost perfect accuracy, a few slight adjustments still being needed.

The machine is known as the American Grain Shocking machine and will be manufactured next year and sold at about $200, Mr. Ward says.

ASK GOMPERS TO COME HERE

Federation of Labor to Invite Him at Annual Meeting

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, will be urged to attend the convention of the North Dakota State Labor Federation, beginning here the first Sunday in May, it was announced by members of the executive committee of the organization in their regular quarterly meeting here Sunday. The invitation to Mr. Gompers will be in person.

Plans also were discussed for an elaborate program for the May meeting here. Present at the meeting were: President Conrad Meyer, Fargo; W. E. McFall, Minn.; Charles Johnson, Mrs. Margaret Froese, Grand Forks; John Jacobson, Williston; Frank Mithell, Bismarck.

REPRESENTS N. D. AT HEARING

North Dakota is represented at a continuation of the hearing in the western grain rate case before the Interstate Commerce Commission by John Thorpe, first assistant attorney general, as attorney for the state railroad commission. Railroad Commissioner C. W. McDonnell is representing the commission at the regional advisory board meeting on car distribution at St. Paul today.

RULES BATTLE TAKES STAGE IN CONGRESS

Democrats and Insurgents Protest Against Regulars' Proposed Change

MELLON BILL HEARD

Washington, Jan. 14.—With committees of both chambers of Congress considering the proposal to start work on a number of important measures the house today laid aside the Interior Department appropriation bill to "begin" the promised battle over amendment of the rules.

Republican insurgents and Democrats were more or less united to bring about sharper revision of the rules than recommended by the rules committee. The committee's recommendation that 150 signatures be required on petitions for discharge of members drew the opposition of both Democrats and insurgents, who regarded the figure as too high, and they were also united on proposals for repeal of the Underwood law restricting amendment from the floor to tariff and revenue bills.

The house ways and means committee began public hearings on tax reduction provisions of the Mellon bill today and the agriculture committee resumed its consideration of farm relief measures.

The house rules committee meanwhile was preparing to begin consideration tomorrow of the offers of Henry Ford and others for the government Muskegon Shoals project and Senator Borah was ready to get under way with the hearing on his resolution favoring recognition of the Russian Soviet government before the foreign relations sub-committee of which he is chairman.

NEW BONUS BILL

Washington, Jan. 14.—Another soldiers' bonus bill was proposed today in the Senate. It is sponsored by Senator Bursum, Republican, New Mexico, and calls for return of veterans of family and insurance allotments deducted from their pay and a percentage of their subscriptions to Liberty Bonds while in service plus additional compensation at the rate of $20 a month for each month of service.

Payment would be made in cash over a period of four years, one-fourth of the veterans to be paid in full each year or in the form of insurance as they might elect. The insurance would be payable at death on the basis of $400 for each $100 of cash due or the policy might be surrendered at the end of 20 years at its cash value based upon annual premiums plus 4 percent interest.

Estimating that 75 percent of the veterans would take insurance, Senator Bursum calculated the cost to the treasury at $125,000,000 each year for the first four years, and $60,000,000 annually for the succeeding 16 years.

100 MEN ARE NOW EMPLOYED IN RIPRAPPING

Big Job Being Carried on Rapidly Above Northern Pacific Bridge on River

PROTECTING THE BANK

United States Engineers Supervising Work of Holding Back River Current

Almost 100 men are employed in various capacities on the big rip-rapping job on the Missouri river's west bank north of the Northern Pacific bridge this winter. The work is being done co-operatively by the United States Engineers, U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, State Highway Commission and Northern Pacific railroad, to protect the bank from further washing away by the Missouri's treacherous current. Continued erosion might eventually endanger the grades of the Northern Pacific, the new vehicular bridge and Mandan. The channel also is preserved for river transportation by the work.

The job is now about one-third completed. It starts at a point about a mile north of the bridge and the project itself is almost a mile long. Sixty men are employed in the supervision and weaving and placing of the heavy mats, while 40 more are employed as wood choppers and haulers. The job will cost upwards of $100,000.

The work can best be done in the winter time. Heavy matrices consisting of willow branches, wire cables interlocked every 20 or 30 feet are woven and they are then weighted down with rock. The matrices are shoved out on the ice about 40 feet extending from the bank, the ice is cut and the matrices then fall down against the bank and extending over several feet from it. The rock are held in place by obstructions placed in the matrices. A solid protection then is provided for the bank against the swirling currents.

Most of the stone used in the work is shipped from Burleigh county, H. A. Thomas of Driscoll and Wm. Joseph of Wing having obtained the contracts for furnishing stone. Most of it was loaded at Driscoll and Wing, while some also was shipped from Steele, Tuttle and McClusky. The brush is obtained along the river. The labor on the job is from Bismarck and Mandan.

The work is timely, in the opinion of those in charge, since an examination of the bank shows the river was cutting into it very rapidly. The work is being rushed as fast as possible, under the direction of A. supervisors from the United States Engineers, War Department, Kansas City, Missouri, and following its completion revetting work will be done around Cannonball.

Dawes presiding, leading business men and financiers of the United States, Great Britain, France, Belgium and Italy sitting as a board of directors and creditors today began to examine the assets and liabilities of Germany, their nation debtor, with a view of saving something from the ruins of the most stupendous bankruptcy in the history of the world.

"Strictly business and no politics," was the motto under which these representative men assembled.

"The success of this committee," said General Dawes in opening the meeting, "depends on whether in the public mind and conscience of the allies and the world there is an adequate conception of the great disaster which faces each ally and in Europe unless common sense is crowned king."

General Dawes stressed the value of unity of command in war to show the bad effects of present conditions. "We had come to know," he said, "in common with the citizens of all nations that at last that lack of power to agree upon a common attitude and common action had brought all Europe to a most critical and dangerous situation. This is no time to mince words."

He continued by discussing "the impetuous and colossal fog-bank of economic opinion based upon premises of fact which had changed so rapidly as to make them worthless even if they were in agreement." The first meeting was lacking in any of the military display which marked the conference at San Remo and Genoa. Louis Barthou, president of the reparations committee, delivered the address of welcome.

"We do not expect from you," he said, "the unlooked for miracle of the solution of the reparations problem but we hope with sincere confidence that your competent experience and authority will concentrate to hasten the result toward which we are bringing all our efforts."

European credit, General Dawes said, had suffered a shock as the world had been the Germans' economic life ebbling—"because," he added, "the world realizes that if the German people lose their capacity to work Germany loses her capacity to pay those reparations which are so great an element in European solvency."

FRAZIER'S KIN IS INVENTOR

Park River, N. D., Jan. 14.—Word received here from Frank Wadde, Winnipeg, brother-in-law of Senator Lynn J. Frazier, for many years a resident of this place, states that he has received much encouragement regarding his shocking machine, a recent invention.

The machine was tried out during the harvest season at Winnipeg and more recently has been tried out in southern states and is reported to work with almost perfect accuracy, a few slight adjustments still being needed.

The machine is known as the American Grain Shocking machine and will be manufactured next year and sold at about $200, Mr. Wadde says.

RULES BATTLE TAKES STAGE IN CONGRESS

Democrats and Insurgents Protest Against Regulars' Proposed Change

MELLON BILL HEARD

Public Hearings Opened By House Ways and Means Committee Today

Washington, Jan. 14.—With committees of both chambers of Congress considering or preparing to start work on a number of important measures the house today laid aside the Interior Department appropriation bill to begin the promised battle over amendment of the rules. Republican insurgents and Democrats were more or less united to bring about sharper revision of the rules than recommended by the rules committee. The committee's recommendation that 150 signatures be required on petitions for discharge of committees from consideration of legislation drew the opposition of both Democrats and insurgents who regarded the figure as too high, and they were also united on proposals for repeal of the Underwood law restricting amendments from the floor to tariff and revenue bills. The house ways and means committee began public hearings on tax reduction provisions of the Mellon bill today and the agriculture committee of both senate and the house resumed their consideration of farm relief measures. The house military committee meanwhile was preparing to begin consideration tomorrow of the officers of Henry Ford and others for the government. Muscles Shauls, project and Senator Borah was ready to get under way with the hearing on his resolution favoring recognition of the Russian Soviet government before the foreign relations sub-committee of which he is chairman.

NEW BONUS BILL

Washington, Jan. 14.—Another soldiers' bonus bill was proposed today in the Senate. It is sponsored by Senator Bursum, Republican, New Mexico, and calls for return of veterans of family and insurance allotments deducted from their pay and a percentage of their subscriptions to Liberty Bonds while in service plus additional compensation at the rate of $20 a month for each month of service.

Payment would be made in cash over a period of four years, one-fourth of the veterans to be paid in full each year or in the form of insurance which they might elect. The insurance would be payable at death on the basis of $40 for each $100 of cash due or the policy might be surrendered at the end of 20 years at its cash value based upon annual premiums plus 4 percent interest.

Estimating that 75 percent of the veterans would take insurance, Senator Bursum calculated the cost to the treasury at $125,000,000 each year for the first four years and $60,000,000 annually for the succeeding 16 years.

ASK GOMPERS TO COME HERE

Federation of Labor to Invite Him at Annual Meeting

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, will be urged to attend the convention of the North Dakota State Labor Federation, beginning here the first Sunday in May, it was announced by members of the executive committee of the organization in their regular quarterly meeting here Sunday. The invitation to Mr. Gompers will be insistent.

Plans also were discussed for an elaborate program for the May meeting here. Present at the meeting were: President Conrad Meyer, Fargo; W. E. McFall, Minot; Charles Johnson, Mrs. Margaret Fronts, Grand Forks; John Jacobson, Williston; Frank Mihollan, Bismarck.

REPRESENTS N. D. AT HEARING

North Dakota is represented at a continuation of the hearing in the western grain rate case before the Interstate Commerce Commission by John Thorpe first assistant attorney general as attorney for the state railroad commission. Railroad Commissioner C. W. McDonnell is representing the commission at the regional advisory board meeting on car distribution at St. Paul today.

LEAGUE DRAWN INTO TURMOIL OVER COOLIDGE

Many Editors Berate Action of Republican State Committee

JOHNSON COMING

Former Bismarck Man Is Made Publicity Manager For California Senator

AGAINST COOLIDGE

Valley City, Jan. 14.—Mrs. C. A. Fisher, member of the Nonpartisan League State committee and one of the 13 stated by the Republican State committee to be candidates for delegates to the Republican National convention, has written Roy Frazier, chairman of the committee, declining to accept the nomination of the committee because she holds that since the committee commended the candidacy of Calvin Coolidge the delegates are virtually pledged to support a "stand-pat" Republican for president.

With the Coolidge and Hiram Johnson forces organizing in North Dakota, a real battle for the state's 13 delegates to the Republican National convention in Cleveland is now under way.

The next bit of action in the events leading to the March 18 primary is the meeting of the "Real Republican State Committee" in Fargo this week to determine whether or not a mass convention will be called for the purpose of putting delegates in the field in the primary.

The next on the program is the Nonpartisan League state convention here February 6.

With respect to the Coolidge campaign, the question now uppermost is the effect of the recent action of the Republican State committee here in commending the candidacy of Calvin Coolidge to the voters of the state and the selection of a slate of 13 delegates.

Most Nonpartisan League editors continue to berate Roy Frazier, committee chairman, and others for the action of the committee, nor does Senator Ladd's endorsement of Coolidge quiet them.

Frazier Under Fire

Roy Frazier's trip to Washington following the convention and the report that he was to get Gunder Olson's place as internal revenue collector—though it was denied by the President in his conference with newspaper men that Olson was to be asked to resign—has added fuel to the flames of some of the league editors. The Williams County Farmers Press is particularly bitter. It says in part:

"The United States of America is a democracy existing with in a republican, representative form of government. It is the best form of government in the world. It has its imperfections, though, and one of them is the curse of politics."

"It seems that every progressive, political movement succeeds to a certain stage in its development and when victory appears to be just around the corner, its organization is seized by politicians who turn it into a party machine."

NEED OF CLOTHES LEADS TO ARREST OF BANDIT FORMERLY IN N. DAKOTA

Denver, Jan. 14.—Just because they needed some clothes three men who Denver police say are more used to cracking safes in various cities of the country today were in the police net here after they had entered a clothing store and helped themselves. They gave the names of Walter Hammon, 47; James Hansen, 30; and J. D. Collins, 27.

Police say that Collins admitted serving a term for robbery at Bismarck, North Dakota, and that he had been arrested under the name of Joe Harris at Spokane, Washington. The police were also sure they have reason to believe that Collins was concerned in a bank robbery at Warden, Washington, and that he broke jail there after receiving a sentence of 15 years in the penitentiary.

State prison officials today were unable to find in their records a former prisoner who gave the name of "J. D. Collins" and was 27 years of age. The nearest approach Secretary Jones could make from a long list of Collins who have been prisoners in the institutions was a Joseph Collins, who was sentenced for robbery in 1917, giving his age at the time as 25 years, and was paroled in 1910.

Claims Wife Shot and Killed

Her Brother Before He Slew Her, Dismembered and Burned Bodies, Arranged Elaborate Disappearance "Plant" Which For a Time Fooled the Authorities—Use of Typewriter Ribbon Leads To His Downfall.

Aurora, Ill., Jan. 14.—(By the A. P.)—Warren J. Lincoln, lawyer, horticulturist and distant kinsman of Abraham Lincoln, confessed last night that he killed his wife Lina, dismembered her body and burned it January 10, 1923, along with that of her brother Byron Shoup whom he maintained had been shot to death by Mrs. Lincoln.

Lincoln disappeared April 30 last and his wife and Shoup were suspected of his murder. He suddenly reappeared June 10 by charging Mrs. Lincoln and Shoup had kidnapped him only to disappear four months later when whispers of suspicion that he had possibly slain his wife and brother-in-law reached him.

A fortnight ago the Aurora police told the Associated Press that they were searching for Lincoln to question him about the disappearance of his wife and Shoup and when he applied for a position in Chicago last Thursday, learned of his address through the firm with which he sought employment.

Glad Its Over

Arrested Saturday and confronted with charges that he had done away with the brother and sister Lincoln confessed, concluding with "I'm glad to get that load off my soul."

Lincoln collapsed as he uttered the last words of his confession and the police left a part of his story unrelated. The "plant" to force the conclusion that he had met with foul play when he left home last April, his nightshirt smeared with blood, his night cap similarly discolored and a blood-stained Indian club along with a stained glove his wife had worn and a pool of blood in his greenhouse were left for later explanation.

"I suspected my wife of being untrue to me," Lincoln said. "Many times she tried to poison me. I saw the man with whom she had been associating leave my house. That started the final quarrel."

"She fired three times at Byron who had upbraided her for being unfaithful to me and trying to kill me. Each bullet struck him in the head. He fell and I grabbed a poker. First I knocked the gun from her hand. Then I swung for her head. She fell dead. I cut up the bodies and burned them the next night."

Typewriter Hig Downfall

Lincoln admitted insertion of "personal" advertisements in the newspapers signing them Lina, his wife's name, and admitted authorship of letters to his wife's relatives, asking and receiving money from them in Mrs. Lincoln's name and confessed signing Shoup's name to a check on an Aurora bank where Shoup had a large account. In each instance of letter writing Lincoln is said to have used a typewriter with a green ribbon and it was said it was through this means that the police fastened the story on Lincoln. If Lincoln's story is accepted in toto county authorities point out he will have established a case of self-defense. It is not accepted wholly now, and the authorities point out, the state must establish the fact of the death of Mrs. Lincoln and Shoup to demand punishment for the lawyer.

REWARD IS OFFERED

Chinese Leader Offers $10,000 Reward for Mrs. Kilen's Captors

Pekin, Jan. 14.—(By the A. P.)—Professor Bernhard Hoff, an American missionary, died today at a hospital at Siangwangfu Hupah province from wounds inflicted about two weeks ago by bandits who also shot his wife and kidnapped Mrs. Julia Kilen, a co-worker, or Northfield, Minn., when they raided the mission at Tsai-Yang.

Mrs. Kilen is expected to recover. Mrs. Kilen still is missing. General Wupei Fu, leader of the Chinese military party and commander of the northern provinces, offered today a reward of $10,000 for the rescue of Mrs. Kilen.

Mrs. Kilen is reported to have been seen a few days ago apparently well in Juchow Honan province. Prof. Hoff and his wife were missionaries for the Swedish branch of the Lutheran church in the United States.

Professor Hoff was born in Moorhead, Minn., and his family moved to Wheaton sometime later. At the age of about 20 he moved to Abercrombie, N. D., with his family, which now lives there. He attended Mayville normal school, Fargo college, the University of North Dakota, and went to China with his wife in February, 1922.

Mrs. Hoff is a daughter of Rev. Broen, of the Lutheran Bible school, Grand Forks. Word has been received in Grand Forks that the Hoffs were planning to return to the United States.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hoff were friends of Mrs. Shipping, wife of Ensign Shipping of the Salvation Army of this city.

FAMILY NOT NOTIFIED

Fargo, Jan. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hoff of Abercrombie, N. D., parents of Prof. Bernhard Hoff, American missionary who succumbed Sunday to wounds received from Chinese bandits, had received no word of the death of their son until notified of the Associated Press dispatch this morning. The last news they had heard of their son, they said, was a cablegram from the hospital saying he was recovering.

Prof. Hoff was born in Moorhead, Minn. Prof. Hoff taught in the Lutheran Bible School at Grand Forks for a year and then attended the University of North Dakota, returning to teach another year in the Bible School. He went to China in February, 1922. He met Mrs. Hoff while teaching at the Bible School of which her father, Mr. Broen, is president.

DEMOCRATS TO NAME CITY FOR CONVENTION

Chicago Offers $125,000 For Meeting of the Democratic National Convention

Washington, Jan. 14.—A panorama of presidential prospects has been prepared for the members of the Democratic National committee who will meet here tomorrow to select a convention city and transact other business.

Friends of William G. McAdoo, Senator Underwood of Alabama, Governor Smith of New York, John W. Davis of West Virginia, Dr. A. A. Murphy of Gainesville and other potential contestants for the nomination are vigorously presenting the claims of their candidates. Selection of the convention city is expected to be sharply contested.

Bids from at least six cities are ready for the committee's consideration but the contest is thought to center among New York, Chicago and St. Louis. San Francisco, Atlanta and Louisville, however, are expected to present strong inducements. Chicago's bid will be backed by an offer of $125,000.

New York's delegation also is understood to be ready to make a large cash offer to get the convention.

ACCEPT GIFT OF DR. COE

Directors of the State Historical society, in meeting Saturday, made no changes in the society's staff and passed a resolution accepting the gift of Dr. Henry Waldo Coe of the plaster cast of the A. Palmist. Professor Roosevelt equestrian statue.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

(Established 1873)

A GOOD SHOWING

Building of good highways is a necessity in the development of North Dakota. This apparently is recognized throughout the state, for the records of Chief Engineer lack of the highway commission disclose an enormous increase in the number of miles of permanent road constructed in the state in the past year. More projects were completed during the year 1923 than during six previous years.

No road is so expensive as a poor road. Maintenance costs for the poorly-constructed road each year add to the cost of the road. It may be reasonably assumed that the projects completed under the supervision of the state highway commission have been properly surveyed, the proper grades provided, proper principles of engineering used. A permanent foundation on which to build has been provided. Its means not only economy of operation and added assurance for the automobilist, but cheap hauling costs for the farmer and others using the highways for business purposes.

It means that the various sections of the state are linked closely together, that the isolation which is a bar to rural development is ended, that an impetus is given toward the settlement of available North Dakota lands.

Those who believe that a little dirt occasionally thrown in a highway is sufficient might be interested in the view of the highway commission of Wayne county, Michigan, which years ago began a campaign of development providing or hard-surfacing of all main roads. The program apparently was completed in 1922. But the commissioners hold it is not yet complete, will not be complete until every highway is bordered with trees, until parks have been provided at intervals, comfort stations built, every railroad crossing moved, an elaborate sign system completed, separate highways provided for passenger and business automobiles, every ordering ditch changed to lessen danger of fatal accidents.

North Dakota has made great strides in highway building in 1923, but has thus far scratched the surface. There must be intelligent development of a state highway system under state supervision as provided in the highway commission. It is the only method of linking the communities of the state together properly and to avoid the unnecessary expense of great improvements on roads which do not fit into a system.

GENERATIONS ABOUT THE SAME

One generation is about the same as another. During 1923 nearly 243 million shares of stocks were bought and sold on the New York Stock Exchange. Practically three times as much as in 1913, that easy-going year before the war started.

And yet, digging into old newspaper files, we find that over 265 million shares of stock were traded in 1901. U. S. steel was being born then, and the possibilities in other fields reached a match to the gambling instinct.

As far back as 1882, the number of shares of stock changing hands on the New York Exchange was nearly half as much as in 1923.

The country grew a lot in those 41 years. Make your comparisons relative, with this in mind, and you'll begin to wonder if Americans weren't bigger gamblers years ago than they are now. Of course, there were more wash sales.

The lure of easy money—the desire to get something for nothing—never loses its strength. Many a cave man lost a life, taking a chance on being able to kill a bigger beast an ever had been killed before.

GLANDOLOGISTS

At a meeting of gland specialists, a boy of 10 is exhibited, three years ago he was in an institution for the feeble-minded. His trouble was sluggishness of the pituitary gland side the skull. He was given pituitary extract—and today is a normal child and bright and healthy.

Cases like this form the most important field of the glandologists. Rejuvenating worn-out old men is an interesting thing in world vaudeville, but of secondary importance. Of course, one must admire them for volunteering to be the subjects of uncertain experiments.

Operating on the brain isn't in it, for delicacy and uncertainty, compared with most tinkering with the glands.

DECEPTION

An old man died the other day in Newark, N. J. Doctors told him he had only a few hours to live. He said he could be happy if he knew that his son, who hit the trail for the known six months ago, was happy and traveling the right way. Well, old Dan had never learned to read. So his wife, indeed with tears, brought in some postcards and pretended they were from the boy, faking the messages as she read them.

The old man died happy, deception alone could do it. He's on the other shore now and knows the truth, probably.

CHINESE THRIFT

Wong Lee, Chinese laundryman, dies in New Haven, Conn. It's revealed that he saved $15,000 in 20 years. The 5,000 represents considerably more self-denial than most white men would subject themselves to, for such a sum.

Probably Wong Lee had hoped to go back to China in his old age, where his savings would have several times as much buying power as in America. He died before his dream materialized, which seems to be a world-wide tendency. His death is interesting chiefly because it answers the question, how much a Chinese laundryman saves.

LUXURY

Genius is forever busy devising ways to extract money from the wealthy. Stores display a leather case, holding a set of clothes-pins of solid ivory. The price is $300.

The nearest approach to this we ever saw was a $500 pocket memo pad in a jewel-crusted gold case. We wondered the time if the ultimate owner would have over 35 cents worth of thoughts to jot down.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

BONUS EFFECTS

What advocates of a bonus for world war veterans are inclined to ignore is that a public treasury grant is nothing more than a loan, that it must be repaid plus interest and the cost of distribution. The recipients themselves would share in that repayment, and a final balancing of accounts might show that they had lost more than had been gained.

In addition to whatever part of the sums they received that they would repay in some form of taxation, they along with others would be penalized in higher prices for commodities and the general tendency toward inflation that would be hard to check. The proposal is not for the expenditure of a few millions of dollars, but of a sum that federal treasury experts estimate at almost $4,000,000,000 and which in the end might be $6,000,000,000. And all that to be added to a national debt of more than $20,000,000,000.

All those who served in the war are not convinced that such an increased burden is justified. More and more opposition is arising within the ranks of the veterans. One recently wished to know what the feelings of men would be who, after putting a fire out in their community store, were successful in getting a bonus for the work, and then found that because of it the storekeeper was compelled to raise the prices on his goods to them and everybody else, or go out of business because of his diminished working capital. The notion that guides in spontaneous efforts to put out fires is a sense of duty, with no thought of compensation other than that which results from the general good. That conception was held by tens of thousands in the war.

The Ex-Service Men's Anti-Bonus League is urging everything for the disabled and nothing for the able-bodied. That is something to which all should subscribe and to which able-bodied veterans are pleading allegiance in growing numbers. It will be a sorry day, if it ever comes, when patriotism in the United States is put on a commercial basis. — Indianapolis News.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

Well, everybody got back safely to Daddy Gander Land—all except Mother Goose, who said she would be delayed an hour or so on account of having to call on the weather man.

But even that didn't leave Daddy Gander much time for all he had to do. He hadn't expected his wife home for a week.

"My goodness!" he exclaimed to the Twins. "It's a very good thing that we ran into her when we did. I never like to have her come home without sending me word and that's something she doesn't always do."

Everybody knew what Daddy meant. He meant the big sign which said "Mother Goose—Her Land" when Mother Goose was at home, but on the other side of which Daddy had written "Daddy Gander—His Land," while she was away. And that side was always up when Mother Goose was away up in the sky. And Daddy tossed things with a high hand then.

"We'll have to turn the sign around the way it belongs," said Daddy anxiously, looking at the sky. "Mother may be back any minute."

Away went Daddy and the Twins and Tom Tinker to fix it, when suddenly a telegram fell right at Daddy's feet. The telegram read:

Daddy Gander—Mother Goose Land—Earth.

Can't get home today. Weatherman gone visiting and can't find him. Will have to stay and watch the rain-barrels so they don't splash over and spoil the circus. Best love.

Mother Goose.

"Well, well, well! I guess there's no hurry then," said Daddy Gander as he folded the telegram. Mother Goose had dropped out of the sky, and stuck it in his pocket. "Come on. We can go to the circus yet. It's just about ready to begin."

The big tent was nearly full when they got there. There were the Tweedles—their faces scrubbed so they shone like milk-pans. And there were the Peterses—since he got such a lecture of stingingness, Peter had been very generous with his wife! And the Pipers and the Daws and the Shaftoes and the Hearts and the Horners and Blues and Dumplings and everybody.

Daddy and the Twins and Tom Tinker had to sit on the lowest board, right next to the ground. But it was loads of fun. The clowns did hand-springs right in front of them, and as sorts of funny things to make them laugh. And when the monkeys came along, racing on pigs, the twins could almost have touched them, they were so close.

But what do you think? The circusman came up and whispered to Daddy Gander that one of the bareback riders was sick and they would have to leave off her act.

Nancy heard him.

"I have my magic shoes and I'd love to ride a horse," she declared. "Oh, please, so let me!"

And so it happened that Nancy put on fluffy skirts and a shiny crown and rode a big white horse in the circus.

And to this day the people in Daddy Gander Land say she was the best they ever saw.

Fire Destroys Business Places

Golva, N. D., Jan. 14.—Fire here early Thursday destroyed the Golva Meat Market, owned by Balow & Kerin, and the hardware store of Theodore Maunum together with contents.

Balow & Kerin estimate their loss on stock and building at $2,000, with half insurance.

Maunum estimates his loss on stock and building at $10,000, partly insured.

The fire is supposed to have started on an overheated stove in the butcher shop.

Fire fighting apparatus was inadequate to cope with the blaze, but it saved adjoining buildings.

Beach firemen lent their assistance.

The best part of the business section was saved by a fire wall. But all stores and a bank were cleared of contents, entailing considerable loss in the hasty moving.

SYNOPSIS.

At a first night performance in New York, a beautiful young woman attracts attention by rising and leisurely surveying the audience through her glasses. Clavering, a newspaper columnist, and his cousin, Dinwiddie, are particularly interested. Dinwiddie declares that she is the image of Mary Ogden, a belle of thirty years ago, who had married a Count Zattiany and lived abroad. He is convinced that this is Mary's daughter, but all efforts to establish her identity prove futile.

Clavering, determined to find out who she is, follows her home from the theatre one night. Luck is with him, for she has forgotten her keys and he helps her get into the house. She asks him in and finally tells him she is the Countess Josef Zattiany, a cousin of Mary Ogden's; that she had married a relative of Mary's husband; that Mary is ill in a sanatorium in Vienna. She asks him to join a small dinner party at her home the next night. Besides himself, the guests are Dinwiddie, a Mr. Osborne and Judge Trent, Mary Ogden's attorney.

are famous for their gallantry, are they not? Myself, I have always liked them." The smile rose to her wise penetrating eyes, and Clavering colored like a schoolboy. Then it faded and her face looked suddenly rigid. "I wonder," she muttered, then turned her back abruptly. "You must not forget your cocktail. And dinner has been announced."

Mr. Dinwiddie made a pretext of sipping his cocktail as the three raised their glasses simultaneously to their hosts. She had declined to join them, with a little grimace. "Perhaps in time I may become American enough to like your strange concoctions, but so far I think cocktails have a really horrid taste. Shall we go in?"

The Judge offered his arm with the formal gallant air he could assume at will and the other men followed at a discreet distance: her shimmering gown had a long tail. Mr. Dinwiddie's eyes seemed to bore into that graceful swaying back, but he was not the man to discuss his hostess until he had left her house, and Clavering could only wonder what conclusions were forming in that avid cynical old brain.

The dining-room, long and narrow, was at the back of the hall and extended along the entire width of the large house. Like the hall, it was paneled and dark, an imposing room hung with family portraits. A small table at the end looked like a fairy oasis. It glittered and gleamed and the flowers were mauve, matching the tall wand-like candles.

"I do hope, Madame Zattiany," said Mr. Osborne, as he took a seat at her left, "that you won't succumb to the prevailing mania for white, and paint out this beautiful old walnut. Too many of our houses look entirely too sanitary. One feels as if he were about to be shown up to a ward, to be received by a hospital nurse with a warning not to speak too loud. There was no chill formality in his men as he bent over his young and beautiful hostess.

"Ah, you forget this is Countess Zattiany's house," she said, smiling. "But I will admit that it is a sharp hiss. "Gadi! More like

Many Friends Say Farewell To The Fields

One of the largest and most representative community gatherings has been held at the McKenzie Hotel, Saturday evening for the reception of Mrs. P. R. Fields. The receiving line consisting of Governor Nestor, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Fields, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Christianson, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Rosen, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Grady, Mrs. A. F. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Duemeland, and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Towne, greeted friends of Mrs. Fields during the hour of the reception. The McKenzie Hotel orchestra furnished music during the reception and at the dinner which followed.

At 7:30 p. m. the company gathered in the main dining room of the hotel at tables beautifully decorated with ferns and cut flowers and during the course of the dinner, some especially prepared community chorus songs were sung, led by Henry Halverson.

Following the dinner, Judge Christianson with some very appropriate remarks introduced J. L. Bell, as toastmaster for the evening. After making remarks Mr. Bell introduced Judge W. L. Nusselt, who dealt with the activities of P. R. Fields in a civic and social way, and in the course of his talk he said: "I am glad I am living in a town the size of Bismarck, where all are friends, where none can suffer nor sorrow, nor have any good fortune thrust upon them, without the citizenry sharing the same." He mentioned Mrs. Fields' activities as exalted ruler of the Elks in securing the swimming pool for the youngsters of the city, and as an active member and officer of the Commercial Club and Association of Commerce, and as a citizen and his readiness to co-operate in any movement for the betterment of civic interests made "P. R." endeared to each citizen of the city.

Mrs. F. L. Conklin by her response to the "Activities of Mrs. Fields in the community life of Bismarck" not only pleased the guests assembled but brought the thought before all that though Mrs. Fields' activities in behalf of the park and other community interests would be missed, the flowers in the park would bloom on the shrubbery continue to grow, as a memorial to the efforts Mrs. Fields had made in promoting the growth of Custer Park. Her activities during the World War, in taking care of the correspondence and bookkeeping at a time when help could not be secured, endeared her to the people of the entire country.

Mrs. Frank Barnes then sang, "So Sore Rose," by Ardit and as an encore sang, "Wishes Three." Mr. Bell then introduced Scott Cameron, a member of the Elks lodge, as a "Bill who would deliver a speech in their own language." During the course of Mr. Cameron's remarks he presented Mr. and Mrs. Fields with a silver console set consisting of a silver card basket and a pair of candle sticks as a gift from the city. In a very touching and beautiful manner Mr. and Mrs. Fields responded with brief but heartfelt thanks and expressed the thought that Bismarck, to them, would seem as home and hoped to be able to return home many times.

At the close of the program "And Lane Sayne" was sung by those assembled.

DINNER PARTY FOR JACK DINGLE

Marston Cordie entertained eight of his boy friends at a seven o'clock dinner party Saturday night, complimentary to Jack Dingle, who leaves this week for Seattle, Washington.

VISITS HERE

Mrs. P. H. Thordal of Glendive, Montana, arrived in Bismarck Saturday to attend the Field's reception and visit with friends for a few days.

Dr. John H. Worst, former immigration commissioner, was in Bismarck yesterday renewing acquaintances. Dr. Worst will do some institute work for the state agricultural ral college. He is now living on his farm on the Lower Yellowstone, and is in excellent health.

NEW CHIEF OPERATOR
Miss Anastasia Skelly has assumed the position of chief operator of the North Dakota Independent Telephone Company, succeeding Miss Clara O. Anderson, who was transferred to Washburn.

ALUMNI MEETING
There will be a regular meeting of the Bismarck hospital alumni tomorrow evening at 8 p. m. in the reception room of the nurses home of the Bismarck hospital.

BIRTHDAY PARTY
Mrs. J. W. Kelley of 302 Avenue D entertained eight little girl friends of her daughter, Evangeline, in honor of her eighth birthday, Friday afternoon, January 11. The afternoon was spent in play after which the children enjoyed the birthday cake. Mrs. Kelley had prepared. The birthday cake with lighted candles formed the centerpiece. Little Miss Kelley received a number of pretty gifts in memory of the occasion.

JOLLY MEETING
The regular meeting of the U. C. T.'s was held Saturday evening at Elks hall with an excellent attendance present. At the close of the business meeting cards and dancing were enjoyed until a late hour. Refreshments were served during the evening and this meeting was pronounced one of the most successful of the season.

A CORRECTION
Mrs. Frank White, wife of United States Treasurer, White, wishes her friends to know that she is not a candidate for the Vice-Presidency of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. It is Mrs. E. Franklin White of Indiana who has been endorsed instead. Several papers of the East had announced the endorsement of Mrs. White as it appeared in a former issue.

Since leaving Bismarck she has been manager of the Johnson store in Mendota, Minn. The Johnson chain of stores are now in operation at Minn., Grand Forks, Bemidji, Albert Lea, Mankato, and Fairbault.

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE
No finer characterizations have been offered on the screen recently than those of the three outstanding roles in Thomas H. Ince's picture "The Eltinge." Eugene O'Neill's stage drama, which is showing at the Eltinge today, Monday as well as Tuesday and Wednesday. "Anna" is played by Blanche Sweet and for outbursts her "Judith of Bethuliah," which won her highest stardom and has gone down in screen annals as a classic. George Marion, stage producer and character actor of international fame, interprets "Chris" with the same finish and sympathetic understanding that brought him acclaim when he created the same role for the stage.

William Russell, as the Irish stoker, "Matt Burke," has his first great opportunity for emotional acting. Characterizations, story and film technique are marked with a dramatic artistry that assures the picture an immediate success.

CAPITOL

"The Governor's Lady," the Belasco stage play, which William Fox is presenting at the Capitol theatre, is one of those strong human interest stories that appeal to everyone regardless of their station in life. The theme is a cross-section of modern American life transferred to the screen in an intensely interesting manner.

Pronounced at the time of its stage production an extraordinarily human play, the screen version possesses the same quality in even a greater degree. There are thousands of "Daniel Slades" in the world, and many of them reach higher positions of fame and honor than the Governor's chair. This same struggle for position and honor is reflected in the daily lives of all around us.

KIWANIANS HEAR OF LIFE OF FRANKLIN

Tribute Is Paid to Great Philosopher at Organization's Noon Meeting

Members of the Kiwanis club, at their weekly noon luncheon today, paid tribute to the memory of Benjamin Franklin, one of the first great Americans, the apostle of thrift, statesman, inventor and philosopher. E. J. Taylor, state law librarian, delivered an address in which he told the Kiwanians of the legacy of Benjamin Franklin's life to the American people.

M. B. Gilman, presiding as chairman of the day, called upon A. P. Leinhardt to divulge the secrets of Frank Knowles on the occasion of the latter's birthday. J. C. Beck won the attendance prize.

E. B. Cox, in a humorous but presented W. H. Webb with a little memorandum to keep with him wherever he may go, and giving him admonitions as to his conduct should he venture from the hearthstone. He also read an anonymous letter regarding President Birdzell which charged that the supreme court justice was arrested in Minnesota last summer and paid a fine. Judge Birdzell, defending himself from the charge, explained that he certainly was not arrested but admitted that he was "stopped by a traffic policeman and simply to accommodate the policeman I visited the police magistrate for a while."

LIONS WILL HOLD OPEN MEETING SOON

The regular meeting of the Lion's club was held at the Grand Pacific hotel this noon. Dr. Dursema, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported that the next meeting of the club would be an open meeting to be held January 21, at 6:30 p. m. when the Lions would entertain their wives and lady friends at a dinner.

L. F. Crawford will be speaker of the evening. In the event that Mr. Crawford will not be in the city on that day, he will speak at the next regular meeting.

John Hall was selected as a committee of one to communicate with Congress recommending the establishment of "National Roosevelt Park" in the western part of the state. Part of this land is still vacant and the rest is to be purchased at a nominal sum.

NEW FEDERATION DIRECTORY ISSUED

The 27th annual directory of the North Dakota Federation of Women's Clubs, which has just been issued by Mrs. Herbert Hallenberg of Fargo, containing recording secretary is a practical work and one that will prove very helpful to those interested in the growth of club work in the state.

The directory shows that Bismarck is the eighth largest club city in the state with a membership of 416.

Perhaps the most outstanding feature of the booklet this year is the list of the usual reports, given by officers of the federation at the annual meeting. Instead of these lengthy reports, the space is given to a concise directory of the clubs of the state, their membership and the course of study pursued.

Brief reports are given of the conditions of the federation's finances, a summary of the Mattie M. Davis Student Loan fund, the auditor's report of the enjoyment fund and that of the membership committee. The directory indicates that 4,150 North Dakota women are actively engaged in club work. This membership is divided among the 158 clubs of the state which are to be found in the eight districts and in which every section of the state is represented. The fourth district has the largest number of clubs, 28, and consequently the largest membership, 600 members. Other districts with the numbers of clubs and their membership are: first district, 27 clubs, 527 members; second district, 10 clubs, 258 members; third district, 30 clubs, 590 members; fifth district, 15 clubs, 188 members; sixth district, 25 clubs, 480 members; seventh district, 14 clubs, 228 members; and eighth district, 23 clubs and 416 members.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

A GOOD SHOWING

Building of good highways is a necessity in the development of North Dakota. This is recognized throughout the state, for the records of Chief Engineer lack of the highway commission disclose an enormous increase in the number of miles of permanent road constructed in the past year. More projects were completed during the year 1923 than during six previous years.

No road is so expensive as a poor road. Maintenance costs for the poorly-constructed road each year add to the cost of the road. It may be reasonably assumed that the objects completed under the supervision of the state highway commission have been properly surveyed, the proper roads provided, proper principles of engineering used. A permanent foundation on which to build has been provided. His means not only economy of operation and added assurance for the automobilist, but cheap hauling costs for the farmer and others using the highways for business purposes. It means that the various sections of the state are linked closely together, that the isolation which is a bar to rural development is ended, that an impetus is given toward the settlement of available North Dakota lands.

Those who believe that a little dirt occasionally thrown on a highway is sufficient might be interested in the view of the highway commission of Wayne county, Michigan, nine years ago began a campaign of development providing or hard-surfacing of all main roads. The program apparently was completed in 1922. But the commissioners hold it is not yet complete, will not be complete until every highway is bordered with trees, until parks have been provided at intervals, comfort stations built, every railroad crossing moved, an elaborate sign system completed, separate highways provided for passenger and business automobiles, every ordering ditch changed to lessen danger of fatal accidents. North Dakota has made great strides in highway building 1923, but has thus far but scratched the surface. There must be intelligent development of a state highway system under state supervision as provided in the highway commission. It is the only method of linking the communities of the state together properly and to avoid the unnecessary expense of great improvements on roads which do not fit into a system.

GENERATIONS ABOUT THE SAME

One generation is about the same as another. During 1923 nearly 243 million shares of stocks were bought and sold on the New York Stock Exchange. Practically three times as much as in 1913, that easy-going year before the war started.

And yet, digging into old newspaper files, we find that over 205 million shares of stock were traded in 1901. U. S. steel was being born then, and the possibilities in other fields were a match to the gambling instinct.

As far back as 1882, the number of shares of stock changing hands on the New York Exchange was nearly half as much as in 1923.

The country grew a lot in those 41 years. Make your comparisons relative, with this in mind, and you'll begin to wonder if Americans weren't bigger gamblers years ago than they are now. Of course, there were more wash sales. The lure of easy money—the desire to get something for nothing—never loses its strength. Many a cave man lost a life, taking a chance on being able to kill a bigger beast an ever had been killed before.

GLANDOLOGISTS

At a meeting of gland specialists, a boy of 10 is exhibited, three years ago he was in an institution for the feeble-minded. His trouble was sluggishness of the pituitary gland side the skull. He was given pituitary extract—and today is a normal child and bright and healthy.

Cases like this form the most important field of the glandologists. Rejuvenating worn-out old men is an interesting thing in world vaudeville, but of secondary importance. Of course, one must admire them for volunteering to be the subjects of uncertain experiments.

Operating on the brain isn't in it, for delicacy and uncertainty, compared with most tinkering with the glands.

DECEPTION

An old man died the other day in Newark, N. J. Doctors told him he had only a few hours to live. He said he could be happy if he knew that his son, who hit the trail for the unknown six months ago, was happy and traveling the right way. Well, old Dan had never learned to read. So his wife, indited with tears, brought in some postcards and pretended they were from the boy, faking the messages as she read out.

The old man died happy, deception alone could do it. It's on the other shore now and knows the truth, probably.

CHINESE THRIFT

Wong Lee, Chinese laundryman, dies in New Haven, Conn. It's revealed that he saved $15,000 in 20 years. The 5,000 represents considerably more self-denial than most nite men would subject themselves to, for such a sum.

Probably Wong Lee had hoped to go back to China in his old age, where his savings would have several times as much buying power as in America. He died before his dream materialized, which seems to be a world-wide tendency. His death is interesting chiefly because it answers the question, how much a Chinese laundryman saves.

LUXURY

On the wealthy. Stores display a leather case, holding a dozen clothes-pins of solid gold. The price is $300. The nearest approach to this we ever saw was a $500 pocket memo pad in a jewel-crusted gold case. We wondered the time if the ultimate owner would have over 35 cents worth of thoughts to jot down.

BONUS EFFECTS

What advocates of a bonus for World War veterans are inclined to ignore is that a public treasury grant is nothing more than a loan, that it must be repaid with interest and the cost of distribution. The recipients themselves would share in that repayment, and a final balancing of accounts might show that they had lost more than had been gained.

In addition to whatever part of the sums they received that they would repay in some form of taxation, they along with others would be paying in higher prices for commodities and the general tendency toward inflation that would be hard to check. The proposal is not for the expenditure of a few millions of dollars, but of a sum that federal treasury experts estimate at almost $400,000,000 and which in the end might be added to a national debt of more than $22,000,000,000.

All those who served in the war are not convinced that such an increased burden is justified. More and more opposition is appearing within the ranks of the veterans. One is easily led to know what the feelings of men would be, who, after putting a fire out in their community store, were successful in getting a bonus for the work, and then found that because of it the storekeeper was compelled to raise the prices on his goods to them and everybody else, or go out of business because of his diminished working capital. The motive that guides in spontaneous efforts to put out fire is a sense of duty, with no thought of compensation other than that which results from the general good. That conception was held by tens of thousands in the war.

The Ex-Service Men's Anti-Bonus League is urging everything for the disabled and nothing for the able-bodied. That is something to which all should subscribe and to which able-bodied veterans are pledging allegiance in growing numbers. It will be a sorry day, if it ever comes, when patriotism in the United States is put on a commercial basis. Indianapolis News.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

Well, everybody got back safely to Daddy Gander Land—all except Daddy Goose, who said she would be delayed an hour or so on account of having to call on the weather man.

But even that didn't leave Daddy Gander much time for all he had to do. He hadn't expected his wife home for a week.

"My goodness!" he exclaimed to the Twins. "It's a very good thing that we ran into her when we did. I never like to have her come home without sending me word and that's something she doesn't always do."

Everybody knew what Daddy Gander meant. He meant the big cigar which said "Mother Goose—Her home, but on the other side of which Daddy had printed "Daddy Gander's Land," while she was away. And that side was always out when Mother Goose was away up in the sky. And Daddy tossed things with a high hand then.

"Well, have to turn the sign around the way it belongs," said Daddy Gander, looking at the sky. "Mother may be back any minute. Away went Daddy and the Twins and Tom Tinker to fix it, when suddenly a telegram fell right at Daddy's feet. The telegram read:

Daddy Gander—Mother Goose Land—Earth: Can't get home today. Weather man gone visiting and can't find him. Will have to stay and watch the rain-barrel so they don't splash over and spoil the circus. Best love. Mother Goose

"Well, well, well! I guess there's no hurry then," said Daddy Gander as he folded the telegram. Mother Goose had dropped out of the sky, and stuck it in his pocket. "Come on. We run go to the circus yet. It's just about ready to begin."

The big tent was nearly full when they got there. There were the Twaddles—their faces scrubbed so they shone like milk-pans. And there were the Petterses—for since he got such a lecture of stinkiness, Peter had been very generous with his wife. And the Pipers and the Daws and the Shaftons and the Bearts and the Horners and Blues and Dimples and everybody.

Daddy and the Twins and Tom Tinker had to sit on the lowest board, right next to the ground. But it was loads of fun. The clown did hand-springs right in front of them, and all sorts of funny things to make them laugh. And when the monkey came along, racing on the tight-rope, the twins could almost have touched them, they were so close.

But what do you think? The circusman came up and whispered to Daddy Gander that one of the barrel-riders was sick and they would have to leave off that act. "Nancy heard her," said Daddy Gander. "I have my magic shoes and I'd love to ride a horse," she declared. "Oh, please, so let me!" And so it happened that Nancy put on fluffy skirts and a shiny crown and rode a big white horse in the circus.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO RUTH ELLINGTON

I'm dashing you off a letter in the greatest haste, my dear Ruth, for I am expecting father and mother at any moment.

I did not go to the train to meet them for oh how I hate to be either welcomed or bade farewell at the train unless one is going on a long voyage. Even then a train letter, or something that will beguile the journey in the way of books sent down to the station or the boat, to my mind is much better.

Mr. Struble telephoned me this morning that you were to make the best possible bargain with that man, get the pearls I said, dear, I got three thousand dollars' apiece. I think you could make a bargain with him for about four, not more than five. But Karl has called that Mr. Struble is to buy back the pearl at any price.

I am sending you with this letter a certified check from Struble & Struble for ten thousand dollars. You will get the cash and pay out as much as you need and return the rest to me. I will see that they get it returned to me.

Ruth, I have a hunch that Bradford woman is going to make a lot of trouble. She has been snooping around this hotel all this day and yet she ostentatiously declines to let me speak to her.

How absolutely bad, positively good women can be!

I don't mind telling you, dear, that I wish I was going abroad with mother and dad. The baby is an angel and I'd like to show him to Alice. The little mink, I shall shake her well when I see her.

The whole town is plastered with bills with Miss Perrier's name in big letters. They are playing at the Rialto which is one of the latest moving picture places here. I think I'll go and see it if I get a chance, although I don't want to take mother and dad. Even as unsophisticated as they are, they might have

are famous for their gallantry, are they not? Myself, I have always liked them. The smile rose to her wise penetrating eyes, and Clavering colored like a scorching. Then it faded and her face looked suddenly rigid. "I wonder," she murmured, "you turned her back abruptly. You must not forget your cocktail. And dinner has been announced."

Mr. Dinwiddie made a pretense of sipping his cocktail as the three raised their glasses simultaneously to their hostess. She had declined to join them, with a little grimace. "Perhaps in time I may become American enough to like your strange concoctions, but so far I think cocktails have a really horrid taste. Shall we go in?"

The Judge offered his arm, with the formal gallant air he could assume at will and the other men followed at a discreet distance; her shimmering gown had a long tail. Mr. Dinwiddie's eyes seemed to bore into that graceful swaying back, but he was not the man to discuss his hostess until he had left her house, and Clavering could only wonder what conclusions were forming in that avid cynical old brain.

The dining-room, long and narrow, was at the back of the hall and extended along the entire width of the large house. Like the hall, it was paneled and dark, an imposing room, long with family pictures. A small table at the end looked like a fairy oasis. It glittered and gleamed and the flowers were mauve, matching the tall wand-like candles.

"I do hope, Madame Zattiany," said Mr. Osborne, as he took a seat at her left, "that you won't succumb to the prevailing mania for white, and paint out this beautiful old walnut. Too many of our houses look entirely too sanitary. One feels as if he were about to be shown up to a ward, to be received by a hospital nurse with a warning not to speak too loud." There was no chill formality in his mien as he bent over his young and beautiful hostess.

"Ah, you forget this is Countess Zattiany's house," she said, smiling. "But I will admit that it is a sharp line. 'Gad! More like a sharp line.'"

Fire Destroys Business Places

Golva, N. D., Jan. 14.—Fire here early Thursday destroyed the G. V. Meat Market, owned by Bulow & Kern, and the hardware store of Theodore Maunum, together with contents.

Bulow & Kern estimate their loss in stock and building at $70,000, with half insurance.

Maunum estimates his loss in stock and building at $10,000, partly insured.

The fire is supposed to have started in a kitchen at the rear of the building.

Fire fighting apparatus was inadequate to cope with the blaze, but it saved adjoining buildings.

Beach district lost their assets.

The best part of the business section was saved by a fire wall. But all stores and a bank were cleared of contents, entailing considerable loss in the hasty moving.

Mr. Dinwiddie made a pretense of sipping his cocktail as the three raised their glasses to their hostess.

Mary than ever. Nile-green was her favorite color."

She greeted the Judge and Clavering with her slight flickering smile and then turned to the other two men.

"This must be Mr. Osborne, as Judge Trent pointed out Mr. Dinwiddie to me one day on Fifth Avenue. It was kind of you both to come in this informal manner. I appreciate it very much."

Her manner was a little like that of a princess giving an audience, Clavering reflected, a manner enhanced by her slight accent and profound repose, the elegant little of her head to be kissed; and as she stood gracefully accepting their felicitations of unhoped for felicity, Judge Trent sat opposite his hostess at the round table. She had placed Mr. Dinwiddie and Mr. Osborne on either side of her, smiling at Clavering. "I am sorry, my dear, I do not know any young ladies," she said graciously, although there was a twinkle in her eye. "You look rather lonesome."

"Why should he?" growled Dinwiddie. "He is young and you are young. The rest of us are the ones to feel out of it."

"Not a bit of it! Not a bit of it!" exclaimed Judge Trent. "You expressions of unhoped for felicity, forget that Madame Zattiany has lived in Europe since infancy. European, then ever. But Clavering, she's talked to elderly statesmen long wondered for the first time if all her life."

"Well, we're not statesmen, the Lord knows," Dinwiddie could afford, almost apathy, but ways be relied on to make the obvious retort, thought Clavering, although it must be admitted that he had seldom with none at all. "But you must have seen more young men than I did during the war, Madame Zattiany. I understand that Mary turned her palace in to a war hospital and a nursing home, that you were her chief assistant."

"That is quite true, and I had by no means confined myself before and after the war, but I had almost forgotten what a young man on his feet looked like before the war. Or Society, for that matter. My one temptation to the hope of forming a relief organization—drive, do you call it—for the starving children of Austria. Russia children are not the only pitiable objects in Europe, and after all the children of civilized countries are of more value to the future of the world."

OVER TWO MILLION DOLLARS

worth of Bismarck and Burleigh County real estate has been sold by me during the past few years, probably as much, if not more, than the sales of any other two or three dealers here in the same length of time. Never once has a buyer complained to me of any misrepresentation as to the title, value or anything else about any property I have sold.

These sales include over 5,000 quarter sections, fully 250 houses and several hundred vacant lots. I made fully 2,000 distinct sales of real estate.

I thoroughly believe that 1924 will see the start of the greatest growth that Bismarck and the surrounding country has ever seen. It will take two or three years for us to realize the full effects of the change which is coming, but the great increase in the acreage and the quality of our corn, together with the increase in cows, hogs, poultry, etc., will, before we are aware build a sure and sound foundation for our future growth and prosperity. Buy our Real Estate now. You can't lose at present values and give your business to the man who really knows the business.

MANDAN NEWS

PLAINTIFF WINS

The jury in the case of The First American State Bank of Golden Valley vs. John Phillips and the Farmers State Bank of Hebron returned a verdict of $1,565.12 for the plaintiff which was being in a judgment action to collect from defendant Phillips, according to the testimony introduced at the hearing, owed the Golden Valley bank a considerable sum, and proceeded to hold an auction sale of his farming machinery, supplies, livestock, etc.

Evidence at the trial and in the complaint filed $770.00 as the cash which Phillips received at his sale but the jury awarded the greater sum. Six questions answered by the jury and to which answers were contradicted and conflicting, the attorneys for the defendants claimed that after filing of the verdict an immediate motion was made for a new trial.

DATES NOT NAMED. Members of the Midway Slope Fair board at the regular meeting failed to reach an agreement on the dates for this fall's exhibition, and extended an invitation to the general public to upper- and recommend dates which in its judgment would suit the needs and serve the greatest number.

ILL WITH PLEURISY. Mr. Lee Nichols, wife of County Auditor Nichols is confined. She has been with a severe attack of pleurisy.

GUEST OF DAUGHTER. Mrs. Wagoner of New Salem is in the city for a few days the guest of her daughter, Mrs. H. M. Fleming.

SERIES OF DANCES. Starting next Wednesday and continuing every week until next June the American Legion will conduct a series of dances in the Elks hall in an effort to raise part of the $2,500 fund needed to properly stage the entertainment features of the annual convention of the Legion June 20, July 1-2. A fine orchestra has been selected and a big time is assured all who attend.

HAS BLOOD POISONING. Chas. Whitmer of Yreka is in the city for the first time in several weeks. He has been under the care of physicians, suffering with blood poisoning of the left hand. It was feared for a time that the hand would have to be amputated.

UNDERGOES OPERATION. Mrs. Val Brown of the city is recovering favorably following an operation a few days ago in a Bismarck hospital.

RETURN HOME SOON. Mr. W. A. Shaw, 6th Ave. N. W. who submitted to an operation a number of days ago, is recovering favorably and will be able to return home soon from the hospital.

HUMAN BONES ARE DUG UP. Kallagher, N. D., Jan. 14—While digging a well some bones which appear to be those of a human being, were found on the Gen. L. Grayson farm, at a depth of fourteen feet below the surface.

They were found on a layer of clay which was just below a stratum of sand and a thin layer of coal. In the same strata as the bones, were found pieces of clam shells and some small shells indicating that the place was once covered by water. There are other bones in the same place and many interesting conjectures are being made.

If the bones were human ones, and there is no doubt of it apparently, the man who once found them very convenient, was a giant in size. The bones have been there for many years and one seems to be almost petrified.

'DEMONS' TAKE MILES CITY TO 18-16 DEFEAT

Local High School Team Plays Best Game of Year in Beating Mountains

Bismarck high school's basketball team defeated the fast Miles City team Saturday night 18 to 16 in the best contest seen on the Miles City floor this year. The outcome was in doubt until the final whistle blew.

Miles City, having won the state championship last year, having been in the play-off in Chicago for the national championship and having high hopes of winning the Montana title again this year, looked like a formidable opponent for the Bismarck "demons" to oppose.

The large floor proved satisfactory to the Bismarck team. The local gym is one of the largest in Montana, and permits free work on the floor without roughness.

Bismarck led at the first quarter, five to three but Miles City held the lead at the end of the first half, 8 to 6. The second half started fast and with but 2 1/2 minutes to go Miles City held the lead, 16 to 12. In a furious finish Bismarck rallied and took the game. Alfson dropped in a lone one and Olson scored two field baskets. The game ended with Miles City having two chances for four goals, but they failed on both. Olson and Serogins started at forwards for Bismarck, Alfson at center and Noddings and Shepard at guards. The Bismarck team showed real team work, their short-passing game proving a puzzle to the Miles City team.

The showing of the Bismarck team dated from here. Mandan comes to Bismarck Friday night and if the local team can keep up the pace shown in the Miles City game Mandan will have a hard time taking the long end of the score. Bismarck had a tough schedule, with some fine games offered the fans, and local fans are planning royal support for the team. Miles City extended the Bismarck boys courteous treatment in that city. After the game the "demons" were given a banquet by the domestic science girls. Miles City will be brought to Bismarck next year. The high school there is known as Custer High, being a county high school.

The summary: Bismarck: Serogins, rf, 2 field baskets; 1 personal foul; being ed out in the fourth quarter; Olson, lf, 3 field baskets, one personal foul; Alfson, c, 3 field baskets, one foul basket, one personal foul; Livdahl, substituting for Serogins, one personal foul.

Miles City: Stangland, rf, one personal foul; Lovitt, lf, one field basket, one foul basket, one personal foul; Ballock, c, one field basket, two personal fouls, one foul basket; Baugert, captain and guard, three field baskets, four foul baskets, one personal foul; Monaco, guard, one personal foul; Hughes substituted for Stangland and Anderson for Lovitt.

INDIAN LAND IN DEMAND

Several Additional Tracts Are Sold on Reservation

Ft. Yates, N. D., Jan. 14.—The demand for land on the Standing Rock Indian reservation is increasing fast. Since December 10th, the date of the last regular land sale 15 additional tracts of Indian land have been sold at private sale, pending the approval of the Indian department. Another land sale is being held today. The next one will be held February 10th.

The Agency office prefers to make all sales at the regular land sales. Private sales, as a rule, are not encouraged, although when the need of the Indian owner is great, owing to advanced age or sickness, private sales will be permitted, subject to the approval of the department. Even then care is taken to give notice of the sale and see

INDIAN CORN TO BE SHOWN

Supt. Mossman Encourages Exhibits at State Corn Show

Ft. Yates, N. D., Jan. 14.—A decided effort is being made by Supt. Mossman and the various farmers in charge of the North Dakota districts to encourage all Indians who have corn to exhibit samples at the North Dakota Corn Show which is being held at Bismarck, January 22, 23, and 24. If all the corn which was exhibited at the Indian fair here last fall could have been preserved so as to be entered at the Bismarck Corn Show, Sioux county would have a wonderful exhibit. As it is, a fair exhibition of the corn raised this year in this county by Indian and white farmers would certainly give this county a chance for the L. B. Hanna cup.

HAZELTON SHIPS HOGS

Fast Becoming Shipping Center For This Section

Hazleton, N. D., Jan. 14.—Hazleton is fast becoming one of the largest shipping points for hogs in the state and every week several loads are sent to the South St. Paul markets both by individual shippers and by the buyers. Last Tuesday four carloads were shipped out. Robert and Homer Walker and Matt Dahl jointly shipped a carload of splendid hogs; John Baker shipped a load and the Hazleton Shipping association shipped out two loads. In these two loads were 265 hogs with a total weight of 46,430 pounds. Manager Matthews, however, held out 20 of the hogs to sell as feeders here as he says by so doing he was enabled to pay the farmer at least 50c per cwt. more than if he had shipped them.

Tuesday last week F. J. Rotzien shipped out a mixed car of cattle and hogs.

GIVES HORSE REINS, SAVED FROM FREEZING

Ft. Yates, N. D., Jan. 14.—The story is told how Mrs. John Elk Face of Porcupine was saved from serious freezing and perhaps death by the ability of her team to go home unguided. The day before New Year's she, with her two children, were driving back to Porcupine from Fort Yates. When about half way home, she realized she was freezing. Wrapping the lines around the front of the wagon box she huddled down in the bottom of the wagon box with her two children under a couple of blankets. The horses, unguided, reached home in a remarkably short time. Mrs. Elk Face suffered rather severe frost-bites on her face, hands and feet.

HATCHES NINE LITTLE CHICKS

A hen belonging to J. B. Swanek, McKenzie store owner, has set a new record. The hen was found in a barn recently, having hatched nine out of ten eggs. The hen and little chickens were brought into the store and now are making themselves at home around a warm fire.

ASK WESLEY COLLEGE BE RECOGNIZED

Resolutions Propose It Be Given Classification as Affiliated College

Grand Forks, Jan. 14.—Resolutions urging that Wesley college of Grand Forks be given classification as an affiliated college on its present work plan, and that standardization requirement specified for full curriculum colleges be modified to accord with the proportionate measure of work of the affiliated college as compared with the full curriculum college have been forwarded by Methodist church officials of North Dakota to the university senate of the church at its meeting in New York city.

The resolutions were drafted recently in Minot, by the Rev. Frank S. Hollett, superintendent of the Minot district; Rev. T. A. Olsen, superintendent of the Fargo district; Dr. Styles Harris, superintendent of the Grand Forks district and John Morage, superintendent of the Bismarck district.

The resolutions further say: "We suggest that the present supporting assets of Wesley college be accepted as meeting the requirements for endorsement with an official request from the university senate that a suggested measure of investment endorsement be provided within the next quadrennium."

"We volunteer the conviction that Wesley college should be regarded by the educational authorities of the church as the officially accepted institution for the North Dakota conference, to have the right of way for indefinite years to come. "We wish also to express our appreciation of and confidence in, Dr. E. P. Robertson as the president of Wesley college; and to commend his heroic, devoted and successful leadership in the work of Christian education in North Dakota."

LEAGUE DRAWN INTO TURMOIL OVER COOLIDGE

traitor to the forces of progress. Its leaders begin to play politics. "This is exactly what occurred when the Republican State Central committee held its meeting in Bismarck last week. It abandoned all principles for the sake of harmony within Republican ranks and in doing so it has ceased to be representative of the rank and file in North Dakota.

The attitude of many league editors make it virtually certain that the question will come before the league state convention here.

Johnson coming. Miriam Johnson, according to reports, will not leave everything to chance or his managers in North Dakota, but plans a speaking trip in the state. Richard Wilcox, formerly of Bismarck but now of Brainerd, Minn., is to direct the Johnson publicity campaign from Fargo.

SUBMARINE L-24 AND CREW LOST

London, Jan. 12.—The admiralty today abandoned all hope of saving the lives of the 43 men who went down with the submarine L-24 when it was rammed by the dreadnaught Resolution off Portland Hill on Thursday.

As soon as the weather moderates the naval officials will take further steps to verify the position of the wreck and to ascertain the exact cause of the accident.

NEW BUREAU IS ACTIVE

323 Children Now Under Jurisdiction of Children's Bureau

Three hundred and twenty-three children are now under the care of the Children's Bureau of North Dakota, established July 1, as a result of legislative enactment, according to Henrietta J. Lund, director of the department. The number includes 251 within North Dakota and 72 outside the state at present but residents of North Dakota.

During the six months operation of the department, 30 adoptions were reported, 19 homeless children were placed, 15 cases of neglect and 20 cases of feeble-minded reports, 16 treatments for crippled children provided, and numerous other children cared for.

The department, which licenses institutions having to do with child welfare, has licensed 32 hospitals and the Florence Crittenton and Luther-an homes to receive maternity patients, authorized the North Dakota Children's Home Society, the Lutheran Home-Finding Society, the Society for the Friendless and the Child Rescue Society to place children, and the first two named and St. John's orphanage and two unnamed boarding homes to receive children.

The work of the first six months has included the broadcasting of information concerning the Children's bureau to various societies and clubs vitally interested, and solicitation of aid of individuals and agencies. Miss Lund is much encouraged over support accorded the bureau by officials and others in the state.

CHANGES MADE IN N. D. GUARD

Major Sprague Authorized to Attend War College

Lieut. Col. Manvel H. Sprague of the North Dakota National Guard has been authorized to attend the Army War College at Washington for a special course of instruction beginning January 30. Other orders and changes in the guard include:

REBELS CLOSE ON TAMPICO

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 14.—Rebel forces in a combined army and naval move have blockaded Tampico, wireless dispatches received here today stated. According to the dispatches virtually all of the "navy" is outside the port and ships have been prohibited from either entering or leaving the harbor.

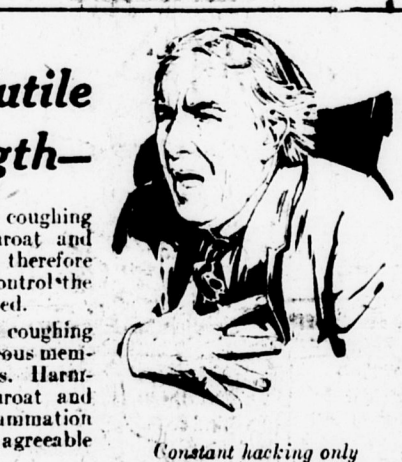

Revolutionary forces are massed in front of the town on the land side and a general attack is imminent, radio dispatches said.

Coughing—a futile waste of strength—

MEDICAL authorities agree that coughing aggravates the irritation in throat and lungs that is causing the cough and therefore only makes you cough the more. Control the cough and the irritation is soon relieved.

Dr. King's New Discovery stops coughing quickly by gently stimulating the mucous membranes to throw off clogging secretions. Harmless and effectively the violent throat and chest spasms are quieted, and the inflammation then quickly clears away. It has an agreeable taste. All druggists.

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY

Constant hacking only makes a cough worse.

"A Good Advertiser is a Safe Borrower"

Under the bank cashier's wicket every day pass thousands of dollars in loans to the manufacturers of America. They make automobiles or soap, adding machines or candy, talcum powder or furniture.

Why do these business men borrow large sums with confidence?

Because by persistent Advertising they have each created in the great buying public a demand for a particular automobile, a special brand of candy, a particular make of furniture.

They judge the future by the past. What advertising has done, it will do, and do increasingly. There is an inexhaustible fund of good-will for the advertised trademarked product. An idea is sold to the public and kept sold by well-planned reiterated Advertising.

BELFIELD IN NINTH VICTORY

Belfield, N. D., Jan. 11.—Belfield's basketball team took its ninth straight victory of the season when it defeated the New Salem quintet by a score of 13 to 9. The New Salem team displayed the best team work of any team opposing Belfield this season. The Belfield second team won over South Heart in a curtain raiser, 7 to 4.

BOXER DIES FROM BLOW?

New York, Jan. 14.—An autopsy has been ordered to determine whether er the death last night of Frank Jerome, bantamweight boxer, was due to a blow received from a blow in a bout with Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., on Friday-night at Madison Square garden. If this proves to be the case, officials state, action will be taken immediately against Taylor. Death followed an operation which failed to relieve a cerebral hemorrhage.
